AUTOMATIC BRANDED FARE NAMES TRANSLATION

Overview

Travelport+ uses numbers to indicate the requested fares (e.g. BF1, BF5, BF12, etc.).

Agents migrating from other systems to Travelport+ might be used to using names (e.g. ECO, CLASSIC, FLEX, etc.) when pricing via BestBuy (FQBB) functionality.

Travelport DOGS plugin can detect and automatically translate FQBB requests containing fare names into FQBB requests with branded fare numbers

Enable/disable functionality

To enable this functionality, enter >#ENABLE BFNAME

To disable this functionality, enter >#DISABLE BFNAME

Note: in the DACH region (Austria, Switzerland, Germany) this functionality is enabled by default.

Usage

Flight Vienna-Rome-Vienna:

```
1.1MUSTERMANN/MAX MR
1. OS 551 Y 20MAY VIEFCO HS1 0635 0810 0 E WE
2. OS 556 Y 25MAY FCOVIE HS1 1745 1920 0 E MO
```

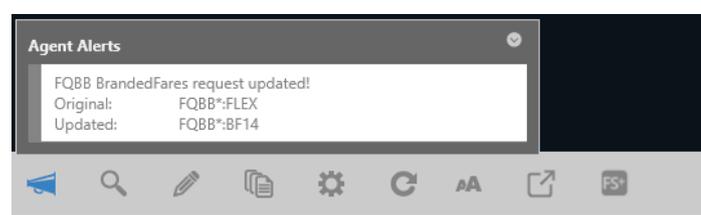

Pricing is done using FQBB, but instead of entering the BF number - which may be unknown to the agent - you can enter the name of the branded fare.

```
1->
>FQBB*:FLEX
```

In the background, the system assigns the name to the corresponding number and prices it accordingly.

```

```

Additionally, the agent will be informed about the automatic translation in an agent alert.

If the agent enters an incorrect branded fare name Travelport DOGS will detect this and display information about possible correct branded fare names.

```
1->
>FQBB*:ECOFLEX
```

In this example there is no branded fare available named ECOFLEX – the correct alternative branded fare names and the corresponding branded fare numbers are being offered.

```
1-FQBB*:ECOFLEX
